Have your say: Opportunity to help design a webpage for healthcare to improve services

We are developing a new way of analysing the comment boxes in patient surveys so that they can be used more effectively to improve health services – using similar technology to that used to analyse reviews in website shopping. We are also developing a webpage that will be able to show the results of our analysis.

We would like to design our webpage together with patients, carers and healthcare professionals, so that it can be used by everyone and so that it will be useful to everyone.

We are therefore holding a series of special large focus groups to do this. If you take part you will be recompensed for time and reasonable expenses. If you are interested in helping us and taking part in this research and would like further details, please print your contact details below or send them to us at D.M.Tkacz@soton.ac.uk.
